

The ice-pit of Pré de Saint-Livres

Jura, as any similar karstic mountain, displays all the characteristics of this kind of geological formation. Especially, there are numerous chasms along the crest of this mountain range. These chasms are being filled up with snow during winter, snow that turns into ice during spring and summer. This is the reason why these abysses are called "glacière" (ice-box).

This one is located a few kilometres from the Marchairuz in the small vale of Pré de Saint-Livres, thus its name. It is also called Glacière de Correntanaz
