

The Pierre du Moëllé

Apart from the Leysin ski slopes, one can still find some convenient places for snowshoes touring. One can, of course, mention the area of Hongrin. But without going that far, there is a small mountain pass that is a magnificent destination.

It is the Pierre du Moëllé. This big monolith is on a small pass dividing Ormonts valley from the Hongrin valley. It must have fallen down a long time ago. However, the tale tells that Gargantua dropped this boulder at this place.

This monolith is however no longer as it originally was, since it was built out as a bunker during last world war.
