The Painter's valley without backpack Start on September 6th, 2018

Only a few people know the Val Vigezzo. Not because it is remote. Not because it is difficult to reach. But because one does not take time to stop.

The Val Vigezzo is in fact the "Italian part" of the Centovalli. Or rather, the continuation, on Italian ground, of the Centovalli. The landscapes that exist there are very different from the ones of Ticino. Look at Val Maggia: steep gneiss hangs with few terraces that overlook a barren and stony valley bottom. Nothing like that in the Val Vigezzo only about ten kilometres away.

Here, there are relatively gentle and afforested slopes. The fact that this valley has inspired so many vocations is not a surprise. This is the reason why it is also called the "painter's valley".

This valley is located not far from the Insubrian line, this geological border that parts the African plate from the European one. Therefore, we will also have the opportunity to hike in Africa.

Day 1 Vocogno - Blizz - Costa di Faedo - Vocogno

After having put down the luggage at the inn, we will get in touch with the valley. I suggest here a walk on the sunny mountainside. From the alp of Blizz, the Swiss border is not really far away. The return on the Costa di Faedo (the beech's edge) is simply splendid.

(650m, 5h, inn)

Day 2 Vocogno - Crest - Cortignasco - Bocchetta di Sant-Antonio - Bagni di Craveggia - Spruga

Like the Centovalli that, as soon as the border to Italy is crossed is called Valle Vigezzo, the upper Valle Onsernone is also on Italian ground and changes its name.

It is called Valle dei Bagni , that is the valley of the baths.

In fact, at a stone throw from the border is a thermal spring that was utilised during a certain time.

Despite of the devastation of the passing time, avalanches and floods, some leftovers of these installations still subsist. We will even be able to give a taste of the water springing at 30°C out from the ground.

The return will be done with public transportation.

(1350m, 6h, inn)

Day 3 Val Loana - Cima della Laurasca

The Cima della Laurasca is one of the first tops of honourable height above the Lago Maggiore. This explains why the sight is so magnificent.

On a clear day, one can see the whole Alps arch until its slow descent to the Mediterranean Sea.

It is said in this region (and I can validate it) that on a clear day, one can see the statue of the Virgin Mary of Milan's dome.

The return will be done going along the fantastic ridge between Cortechiuso towards Forcola.

(1000m, 6h, inn)

Day 4 Blizz - Bocchetta di Sant Antonio

This last day, we will climb to the Bocchetta di Sant Antonio, only far from the Swiss border by a few hundredth meters. This explains why there has been so much smuggling during certain periods of time around there.

We will also have time to climb the Monte Ziccher, magnificent viewpoint opposite to the Gridone.

(900m, 6h)
